Sebring Camp Meeting Set For Thursday Opening

Three evangelists will participate in the program prepared for the 60th annual session of the Sebring Interdenominational Holiness Camp Meeting association, which opens Thursday at the camp grounds, south of Sebring, for 10 days. They are: Rev. M. H. Snyder and Rev. W. H. Neff, both of Indianapolis, and Rev. Paul E. Uhrig of Richmond, Va.

The Ken Apple Trio of Cleveland, Tenn., will be in charge of the music, while the Children's meetings will be under the direction of Mrs. Edith Gallagher of Sebring.

Thursday, July 23, will be observed as Missionary Day. Speakers scheduled are Dr. John Brose of Africa and Esther Faulkner of India, representatives of the World Gospel Mission and Rev. Rolland Rice, Formosa, of the Oriental Missionary Society.

Rev. George O. Cole of Sebring is president of the association. Other officers are: First Vice President, Arthur Speakman of Sebring; second vice president, Rev. Charles Kernodle of Beloit; secretary, May Belle Graham of Canton; treasurer, Alfred J. Psolla of North Canton.

Rev. Harold B. Winn of Salem and Rev. William H. Waltz of Sebring are on the board of directors.

Founded By Sebrings

This Camp Meeting Association is the oldest and largest religious project of its kind in this area. The George Sebring, Sr., family, which founded the village of Sebring, also instituted this religious organization. The grounds covering eight acres were donated by the Sebrings with the specification that they be used only for an interdenominational camp meeting; otherwise they revert back to the Sebring heirs.

When a large tent used for the first meetings was overgrown, the present tabernacle was built. Its seating capacity is estimated at nearly 2,000.

The late Rev. Bud Robinson, noted Kentucky evangelist, preached the initial sermon at the first camp. The other preacher that year was the late Rev. William Huff.

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Amos L. Heer, retired Kent State University education professor and Methodist Church lay leader for many years, is dead at the age of 78.

Heer died Friday in the Phillips' est Home here. He served on the Kent faculty from 1927 until his retirement in 1956.

The dragon conceived in fables was usually a high, bat-winged, fire-breathing, scaly lizard or snake, with a barbed tail. The belief in dragons seems to have arisen without the slightest knowledge on the part of the ancients of the gigantic and astonishingly dragonlike extinct reptiles of past ages. In Greece the word "drakon" was used originally to describe any large serpent.

Hamsters Really 'Ham It Up'

They Are 'Props' For Girl's Project In Genetics

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

Gunther and Gertrude started "going together" last November. After a whirlwind courtship, they settled down and reared a family.

Now, eight months later, Gertrude has so many children and grandchildren she doesn't know what to do. So she doesn't do anything, except what comes naturally.

Gunther and Gertrude are pet hamsters, but far more than mere pets to Elaine Brown of 2051 Oak St., who'll be a freshman next year.

The prolific hamster couple and their myriad offspring don't realize it, but they are building a scientific reputation for the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brown.

ELAINE IS USING the nibbly little animals with the stubby tails for research in genetics. Her first years efforts won for her exceptional recognition in the Ford-Future Scientists of America competition in the Ohio-Michigan region. She was selected among the top 20 out of some 9,000 of the best young scientists in the two educationally-rich states.

The effervescent young girl, who is wild over animals, plans to go deeper into her heredity studies next year, if her hamsters continue to cooperate as liberally as they have. The little Syrian natives are one of the most fecund of the notoriously prolific rodent family.

Through her hamster breeding work and oodles of reading on genetics, Elaine spouts off such terms as mitosis, meiosis, or genetic formulas and ratios as simply as she can whip out a tune on her French horn, trumpet or piano.

The shock of her life—and a surprise, too, to her teacher Walter Newton — was the ratio of offspring from Elaine's original pair, Gertrude and Gunther, bot' golden hamsters. Gertrude, 16 days after mating, gave birth to nine babies, five golden, three albino and one cream, solid proof that the parents weren't pure strain goldens. Through many other crossings of her growing hamster family, she was able to calculate various genetic ratios and prepare her prize paper. She was aided in her ratio work by Mrs. Sandra J. Ineman of Kent State University's biology department.

HAMSTER HAMS IT UP — Frances, a female hamster, nibbles on a tidbit from her mistress, Elaine Brown, but Gertrude couldn't care less. They are two of a raft of hamsters Elaine raised for a genetic study that won her high recognition in the Ford Future Scientists of America contest.

THE HAMSTER CLAN that calls the Brown basement home has been far from purely academic drudgery for Elaine. A hamper of hamsters is about as much fun as a "barrel of monkeys." Each has his peculiarities.

There is, for instance, Frances, a hopelessly habitual hoarder. For a handful of pumpkin seeds she will put on a show that can tease away the most avid TV viewer to watch her antics.

Her act is called "stuffing the pouch" or "How to Get Ready for a Rainy Day". Heedless of calories and one by one, she picks up the seeds, working them back into the amazingly flexible cheek pouches, until it seems she would explode. The pouches become as tight as a chicken's full craw. This is the first act.

She saves the best and last act as a finale. Seeking out a corner of her cage, the greedy little female sucks in air then, in an unladylike manner and a loud blast, spits out the seeds into a heap with theaidofher forepaws. Then she dines at her leisure.

APT ALLITERATION'S artful aid is the secret to Elaine's naming system. Not one hamster, not even the runt, Egbert, remains anonymous. All the babies in a litter get names with the same beginning letter. This becomes something of a challenging chore considering Mama might produce 15 babies. Elaine's most productive mother hamster had 11.

Then it may become a brain-racking, supper-table game to eke out those last few, alliterative names, and the more pompous, the better.

Elaine and her mother thought up Eloise, Esmeralda, Effie, Enoch, Ephraim, Everett, Eli, Elmer, Egbert, Elizabeth and Eunice for the biggest litter. In the "C" litter, Elaine thinks the names Columbine, Caesar and Cicero are "pretty wild" and Gasper, Gustav and Gideon in the "G" gang are "cute". Anyway, it's all in the family . . . and in fun.

emotional stimuli. Trying to build up a more relaxed approach to life in a boy who has reached 18 will probably be a long and difficult job—one that may require the guidance of a psycho-logically oriented physician.

Meanwhile, your son may get some relief from a lotion containing aluminum chloride but this must be used with caution because some persons are overly sensitive to it. Baking soda dusted on the body may also help. There are also some newer chemical agents that can be applied locally, such as AHR-483—but this is more expensive. Belladonna taken internally in small doses will reduce sweating but it is also likely to dilate the pupils and to make the mouth dry. It's the old story of no advantage without some loss.

Finding The Way

In the Dark Hours

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

In a fascinating article concerning his insomniac tendencies, a brilliant American anthropologist pointed out a familiar perversion: "It is true," writes Loren Eiseley "that as an educational administrator I can occasionally be caught nodding in lengthy committee meetings, but so, I have observed, can men who come from sound nights on their pillows. Strangely I who frequently grow round-eyed as an owl at the stroke of midnight, find it pleasant to nap in daylight among friends." Well, many of us have had that experience! It's a perverse business.

BUT THERE ARE OTHERS.

There is the problem of the conversation or the debate when you seemed suddenly to be tongue-tied. It was a strange condition, for at home you could speak. Then, in the silent darkness of your own privacy, you could experience:

Oh how I regret in the night,
With a pain that will never abate

That brilliantly crushing remark,
I thought of five minutes too late.

The writer of the letter to the Romans knew perversion. He talked of a great faith and enormous ambitions for righteousness. Yet even this saint could confess, "For the good that I would, I do not; but the evil which I would not, that I do." It's a paradoxical business.

WE ARE A complicated people and a part of the escape from the dilemma is in the possibility of redeeming the problem. Eiseley tells of redeeming his sleeplessness. "At night one has to sustain reality without help.

One has to hear lest hearing be lost, see lest sight not return to follow moonbeams across the floor, touch lest the sense of objects vanish. Oh, sleeping, soundlessly sleeping ones, do you ever think who knits your universe together safely from one day's memory to the next? It is the insomniac not the night policeman on his beat." It is a whimsical touch, but it has the note of transcending the problem.

PAUL LAID HOLD OF this perversion in the human being, insisting that it was his companionship with sin that kept him from being what he knew he ought to be, thanking God for God's grace which can make it possible for man's perversion.

JENNINGS AVE. and FIFTH STREET

John is thinking about "what he wants to be." No, he doesn't want to be a jet pilot, nor a nuclear physicist, nor a lawyer, nor an actor, nor a doctor, nor yet a banker, baker, or chemist. John has decided. He wants to be a MINISTER.

I wondered if his father or his uncle or anyone else in the family is a minister? Strangely enough, no! He won't make a lot of money, and knowing John, he certainly won't particularly like the idea of getting up to "preach" to people. Definitely he won't have a big shiny car to make his calls. I wondered why John had decided to devote a lifetime to service in the Church.

I asked John for a frank answer and he told me many small accumulative experiences which boiled down to this: A strong Christian influence from family, friends, and church kindled a spirit of awareness and devotion which seems to be latent in every human heart. Of course, we can't all be like John. Few of us have received the stimulus to devote our entire life to the Church. But some of John's spirit does dwell in all of us. Too often we are unaware that we possess this miraculous gift from God. Rekindle your spirit by going to church this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Every Man For Himself

If Gov. Rhodes and Republican State Chairman Ray C. Bliss say they planned to turn loose the Ohio delegation to the GOP convention from the very beginning, that is undoubtedly what they planned to do.

There is no reason to doubt their word that it was going to be every man for himself under certain circumstances.

But their word would be easier to follow if it described the circumstances.

If there had continued to be doubt up to the last minute about the way Republican delegates were going to cast their votes, it would have been a fine idea to keep the Ohio delegation tied up in its commitment to favorite son James A. Rhodes. That was planned from the beginning, too, we suspect.

This would have put the governor and Chairman Bliss in a position to go bargaining with 48 votes. It would have put them into the political poker game with a hatful of blue chips.

But once it was known that Barry M. Goldwater was going to San Francisco not to fight for the presidential nomination but to receive it as a token of victory in a fight already won, there was nothing to go bargaining for with Ohio's 58 votes.

Their only trading value then would have been for a vice-presidential nomination, and Gov. Rhodes says he isn't interested in that. Before Ohio ever was heard from, according to Associated Press, the Goldwater total already had gone past 700, with only 655 votes needed for nomination.

There was nothing left to do but turn the Ohio delegates loose when they got to San Francisco. They had no collective bargaining power.

Strike Up the Band!

Remember the old-fashioned band concerts in the park? Well, you don't have to reminisce with a nostalgic sigh about an enjoyable event that no longer exists because you can stroll out to Centennial Park Sunday evening and listen to Salem's own American Legion Quaker City Band.

The bandsmen, thrice Ohio champions and once national champs in Legion competition, will present a varied program of stirring marches, pop and concert numbers.

Weather permitting, you'll be glad you came.

Let the Democrats Do It

When Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona votes no on a proposed law because he thinks some of its sections are unconstitutional, he is declaring a personal opinion.

When he did this in the instance of the civil rights bill in the Senate, he stated an opinion that put him at odds with most members of the U.S. Senate and the House of Representatives. He knowingly took his political life in his hands, because his NO vote lined him up against the numerous Americans who wanted the civil rights bill passed and signed into law without further delay.

So much for Sen. Goldwater.

REPUBLICANS trying to force into their party's platform a flat statement that the civil rights law is constitutional, in the hope of making the platform unacceptable to Sen. Goldwater and his backers are out of line.

What a senator chooses to state as a personal opinion is his own affair. What a political party states as a platform position is something else.

The constitutionality of the civil rights law must be assumed until it has been challenged successfully in the only place where a decision can be made—the U.S. Supreme Court. It cannot be established by a political party.

The Republican platform committee and the Republican convention have no call to be making rulings in areas beyond their competence.

A national convention can no more have a composite opinion about the constitutionality of a law than about cucumbers as a table delicacy.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION can subscribe to the desirability of the civil rights law in general—and it undoubtedly will do so in the strongest possible terms.

But only the Supreme Court can rule on the constitutionality of the civil rights law.

Republicans should let Democrats come to blows over civil rights. They have had much more practice. They do it better.

No One Can Dictate

Political platforms, as the saying goes, are made to run on, not stand on.

But there is a more penetrating way to look at the platforms.

The parties are loose coalitions of differing factions. This has been the saving grace of the two-party system, which has kept Americans from being locked into stratified patterns of political thought like Conservatives and Laborites in Britain.

In the United States, both parties have had conservative elements. Both parties have had labor elements. There really have been six parties — the left, middle and center factions of both major parties.

Hence, the difficulty with political platforms.

PLATFORMS had to provide common ground for all the elements of each major party. In the process of making them, platform makers conducted a seminar on the issues of the day.

This is what Republican platform makers are starting to do today in San Francisco. They are getting ready to write articles of faith to which Republican candidates at all levels can subscribe in 1964. It is not easy.

Cynicism is the common attitude about party platforms, but not all of it is justifified.

In fact, if it is acknowledged that the purpose of a political party is to win elections, most of the cynicism about party platforms is wiped out. Platforms are the sales pitch for the national election — the best presentation the party can make of what it is offering to voters.

THE PRESENTATION is subject to change. Voters must be appealed to.

The classical example of change in modern times is the Democratic platform of 1932, which offered prudence in place of the Hoover administration's "reckless spending." Four years later, in 1936, the Roosevelt "New Deal" had crowded out prudence as a sales argument. The 1936 platform was a repudiation of the 1932 platform.

Republican platform makers this week will be looking for ways to win the 1964 election. They will be trying to make a platform on which Republican factions can find a common footing for the 1964 campaign.

No one will dictate the platform. It will embody many compromises. Many differences will be split. This is the party system. This is the system that most Americans cherish because it works well, year in and year out.

By Truman Twill

Love Feast

One thing above all should be kept in mind while the two political parties are organizing for their quadrennial battle.

What the boys say about each other while maneuvering for power in the regrouping of forces for the national campaign is subject to instant forgetfulness.

They are trying to sway opinion hither and yon to suit their conflicting ambitions. Once their personal purposes have been brought into a common front for the national campaign, they will stand shoulder to shoulder and cheek to jowl.

For an up-to-date reminder of the way it works, refer to the hard words flying around when the late John F. Kennedy was nailing down the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960. Refer particularly to the slam-bang primary campaigning of the then young senator from Massachusetts and the dynamic senator from Minnesota, Humbert Humphrey.

Recall the knife-flashing episode at the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco which determined that Lyndon B. Johnson would be the vice presidential candidate and that Adlai E. Stevenson would be appeased by sending him to the United Nations.

WHEN IT WAS over, these bitter rivals and a gaggle of supposedly irreconcilable southern-fried senators and representatives from the chillings belt were all snuggled up together in one big bed again — one happy, fun-loving crowd.

It nearly always turns out that way.

The boys almost never take their ball and run home in a snit, for one simple and powerful reason. If they want to play ball at all they have to play in the only game there is. Once in a great while they will sulk like Achilles, or go grumping into oblivion like Teddy Roosevelt and his Bull Moose. But mostly they end up in smoke-filled room with their arms around each other singing, "Hail, hail, the gang's all here."

This is not easy to remember when fur is flying and blood is spattering on the wall - to - wall carpeting of convention hotels.

It is not easy to remember while the big cats are baring their fangs and claws and going yowrrr. But it's the way the game is played.

PARTISAN POLITICS is not brotherly love. It is not a fraternal order, a religious society, or a love feast. It is a loose coalition of ambitious human beings in quest of a mandate from the rank and file to run the show until the curtain goes down.

It is like a ball club organized for the sole purpose of winning ball games. Do the players love one another? Don't be foolish. They're held together by nothing but a common desire to finish first. When the game's in progress they help one another. Otherwise, yanh!

Collective Bargaining

While Victor Riesel is on a news gathering expedition of Africa and Eastern Europe, leaders in the business, professional and political life of the nation are pinch-hitting for him!

By THEODORE KHEEL
Labor Mediator

Most labor negotiators bargain with one eye on the clock. The fateful hour is usually 12:01 a.m. the day after a contract expires. Until then there can be no strike. The contract forbids it. So neither side is penalized for not reaching an agreement by making concessions before then. But once a strike begins, the penalty is on both sides — the company loses sales, the employees their wages.

That is why the prospect of a strike is the most powerful incentive for agreement in collective bargaining. When President Johnson won a 15-day postponement of the national railroad strike last April, the terminal date for the negotiators became 12:01 a.m. Saturday, April 26.

But there was a difference. Most everyone agreed that the President could not permit a national railroad strike to take place. It would be too damaging to the country. He had to act before April 26. What then were the alternatives? Probably to seizure.

If President Johnson had said he would follow either course the bargaining would have ended. If negotiators know where they are going to wind up, there's no pressure on them to adjust or compromise their position.

THE NEWS reporters were insistent. After all, the public is entitled to know. If mediation failed, they kept asking the President, what did he plan to do.

"I'm not here to bury bargaining but to save it," he responded. Because he is a skilled negotiator himself, the President knew how vital it was to keep the outcome in doubt by avoiding answering his $64 question.

There had to be a day of reckoning. We knew it wasn't 12:01 a.m. on Saturday. The President could not afford to wait that long. Wednesday seemed like the last possible date for a negotiated settlement, and Dr. Taylor and I said so to the railroads and unions. And that is the day on which the dispute was settled.

The railroad settlement doesn't mean that there will be labor peace for all time. Indeed, there are many difficult problems the railroad industry itself still faces. Negotiations on the waterfront and in the automobile industry also are likely to come to the forefront before November, a critical period for national labor negotiations. But it is reassuring to know that a man who thoroughly understands how bargaining works is at the wheels in the White House.

BARGAINING LOOKS like an easy process but it is actually very difficult, and a mediator to be helpful must understand how bargaining really works. Labor negotiations are particularly complicated. There are not only the interests of the principals (the company and the employees) but the strategies of the negotiators to consider. Not only must they seek to achieve a good deal but also to satisfy their principals that they have done the best they can.

The company negotiators must report back to their stockholders on what the deal has cost; the union spokesmen must prove to the rank and file that they have gotten the most they can. On the road to this point, there are no shortcuts. Even if a mediator knows in his own mind where the parties are likely to come out, he makes a mistake to say it, at least too soon. There is a time for talk, and a time for settlement. That's why the clock is so important.

It's also difficult for an outsider to gauge how negotiations are really doing. Even with newspaper reporters as skilled as Victor Riesel, the true course of negotiations does not always appear from newspaper accounts.

THE REASON is simple. A negotiator who might be willing to settle for less is obviously going to avoid any indication of this. He may tell a mediator in a private meeting there is room for compromise. But he certainly doesn't want it reported in the press so he will fence with newspaper reporters who try to get behind his stated position.

Actually, negotiators use press reports to reinforce their bargaining strategy, thus making the news accounts, at least in major disputes, part of the negotiating arena.

Perhaps the best example of the interplay of public statements with bargaining strategy was the negotiations last December in the transit industry of New York City. There Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, affirmed with such emphasis his determination to win a reduced workweek that everyone, the mediators included, was absolutely convinced he would not settle without some move in that direction even if it meant a strike of the subways. But the final settlement did not provide for any reduction in hours.

WHEN ASKED at the press conference announcing the settlement what persuaded him to forego the demand for a reduction in hours, Mr. Quill replied with what I believe was a classic response designed, I'm sure, to foreclose any further discussion. It was, said he, "common sense," and that ended the inquiry.

If anyone thinks that in the next negotiations Mr. Quill will not advance a demand for a reduced workweek with equal force, and sincerity, he doesn't thoroughly understand how collective bargaining works. And when that happens, as it probably will, no one will know until the very end how the negotiations will finally come out.

The Candidates' Health

By EARL UBELL

President Eisenhower put the presidential pulse rate on the public record. His physician, Dr. Paul Dudley A. White, went even further, describing the chief executive's most intimate physiological functions. Both men broke with a tradition that had kept the president's health a secret.

Since then parlor physicians have had a good time analyzing President Eisenhower's ileitis and stroke, the late President Kennedy's back trouble and his alleged glandular difficulties, President John's heart attack, and now the sundry ills of the current candidates for the high office.

Of the three men—President Johnson, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. William W. Scranton—only the President's health record shows any recent severe illness: the heart trouble. July 2 was the ninth anniversary of that attack.

PARADOXICALLY, now that the President has survived so long after that attack, he has a better chance of living out a normal life expectancy than a man of his age—55. This is the opinion of Dr. Maynard Gertler of New York University Medical School, who studied the survival of men with a single heart attack. It is in the President's favor that he had his attack after the age of 35; men in that class survive longer than younger men after an attack.

However, since then the President has gone all out to do the things he ought to do. He stopped smoking, although he is so wedded to the habit he still fingers a cigarette from time to time.

The President lost weight—almost 30 pounds—keeping himself between 175 pounds to 180 pounds, which is relatively slim for his 6 foot 3 inch height. He keeps his daily calorie count in food to 1,500, takes an occasional swim, but burns most of it off in restless energy.

Twice the President had a bout of kidney stones, the second time in 1955 requiring surgical removal of a stone. He has not had a recurrence. During World War II, he fought off a near-fatal siege of pneumonia while in the Far East, and during his early years he had an emergency appendectomy.

ALTHOUGH DOCTORS pronounce him fit, it is no secret that they cannot get him to relax. He works long hours, often getting along on as few as six hours sleep a night.

Gov. Scranton seems never to have had any serious illness at all in his adult years, according to his sister, Mrs. Albert W. Isaacs. He doesn't smoke, he keeps slim—160 pounds to 170 pounds for a 6 foot frame. He swims and plays "good suburban tennis" for a man of 47. Dr. Ben Kline, of Dalton, Pa., the family physician said: "I rarely see the governor. He's in tremendous health."

Sen. Goldwater also has had no serious illness recently. He was hospitalized in January for the surgical removal of a bone spur on his right ankle. Except for the pain at the time, there was no untoward effect.

However, back in the 1930s the senator suffered exhaustion after, long, hard work.

It happened apparently back in 1936 or 1937 when the Goldwater store was having its depression difficulties and the senator was working night and day to make it go. He reportedly couldn't sleep and went for a rest.

THE MEN around Goldwater knock down the importance of this episode. They point out that no psychiatrist was involved and that it was a simple case of exhaustion. They also have an official U.S. Air Force medical report to back them up, which they quote:

The senator's medical history has been a matter of record in the Air Force for 22 years. In all this time there has been no report of mental or nervous disability or disorder. There is none today.

Militarism Trend

By MYRON KANDEL
Herald Tribune News Service

BONN — The spectre of reawakening Prussian militarism has been conjured up by charges that the West German Armed Forces are threatening to turn away from newly adopted democratic concepts and develop again into a state within a state.

To most people in prosperous West Germany, this prospect is almost as frightening as it is to people in the countries that twice in this century suffered the blows of Imperial and Nazi German armies.

The government of Chancellor Erhard, which by constitutional directive exerts strong civilian control over the military, contends, however, that no threat exists and that the armed forces — 41,000 strong — are firmly embarked on the path of developing a democratic tradition.

THE QUESTION, which has developed into the most sharply debated domestic issue in some time, was raised by Hellmuth Heye, a widely respected retired vice admiral who serves by parliamentary appointment as a watchdog over the training and morale of the Bundeswehr as he West German forces are called today.

This establishment of this post was insisted upon by the opposition Social Democrats 10 years ago before they would agree to plans to rebuild, at Allied urging, West Germany's armed forces.

Physically the 55-year-old senator seems to be in top condition. He still flies jets, rides horses and leads an active outdoor life.

Through The Years

By MYRON KANDEL

Adm. Heye is a decorated veteran in two world wars whose father was chief of the Reichswehr's general staff under the Weimar Republic, successor to Imperial Germany and predecessor of Nazi Germany. At 68, he still tackles a grueling work schedule, flying from base to base in a light plane on his frequent inspection trips.

He made his charges recently in an article in a popular illustrated magazine that appeared four days after he delivered his official annual report to the Bundestag (lower house of Parliament). That report was similarly critical but in far milder tones.

Adm. Heye discussed the situation with Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel, who had reacted quickly to the charges with a ringing vote of confidence in the Bundeswehr.

AFTER THE MEETING, the admiral said von Hassel had been particularly concerned about his assertion in the article that the Bundeswehr was showing signs of developing into a state within a state.

Adm. Heye explained that he had not meant this in a political sense, but had used these words to express his worry that the officers and non-coms of the Bundeswehr were becoming increasingly isolated from the mainstream of West German society.

Von Hassel has voiced similar concern himself. Many West Germans, preoccupied with the nation's economic prosperity, view the Bundeswehr merely as an organization of public watchmen who only cost money, he charged the other day.

Red Chinese Step-Up

By SEYMOUR FREIDIN

LONDON — Red China has just launched an all-out campaign against Israel in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Propaganda, psychological warfare, and person-to-person persuasion at high levels are being used by the Communist Chinese in something of a saturation, anti-Israeli effort.

So hard are they pushing their points that some non-Arab, but Moslem, nations caught on and quietly communicated the gist of this fresh and aggressive campaign. Key objective seems to center in chopping up Israeli technical assistance projects in under-developed countries where they have been successful, although modestly based.

At the same time, Red China is striving to show that it is a better protector of Arab interests than is the Soviet Union. The result has been the start of a competitive contest to curry the most favor.

Intertwined with Chinese persuasions and attempts at pressures is a neo-colonialist theme in which Jews of the U.S. are singled out as instruments of "imperialist" policy. One of the anti-Israeli lines, repeated now in Africa, is that U.S. Jews planned and plotted Israeli infiltration into under-developed areas.

THE CONCEPT, the Red Chinese line goes, was co-ordinated in Washington with the blessing, of course, of the U.S. Government. Then follows the competitive phase with the Russians.

Soviet official policy, Red China's troubleshooters tell their listeners, is to soft-pedal this point U.S.-Israeli venture into infiltration of areas in Asia and Africa. The reason? Because the Russians are so intent on dealing with the Americans that they have abandoned substantive support for former colonial-held countries.

Only a grain of truth exists within this distorted picture held up high for frustrated and often-puzzled top echelons of new nations. Yet it has begun to make some impact. Questions are being asked on some African-to-African and Asian-to-Asian levels.

The easiest mark is in the Arab world, where any anti-Israeli comment and interest, especially from a large nation, finds almost certain credence. Some Arab leaders have pointedly noted that Red China was the only power in the non-Arab community to have recently sent a message of support to the Palestine refugees.

EVER SINCE the Red Chinese undertook an active interest in Africa, Asia, and Latin America — roughly 30 months ago—they have actively sought to undercut the Israelis. The new and co-ordinated campaign dates from Premier Chou En-Lai's big African swing a few months ago.

In conversations with African leaders he encountered, Chou used unrestrained criticism of Russia's role in winking at Israeli projects. Some of the Africans reminded him pointedly that the Russians were anti-Israeli in policy and anti-Jewish at home.

Histories of Churches Linked to Early Artifacts

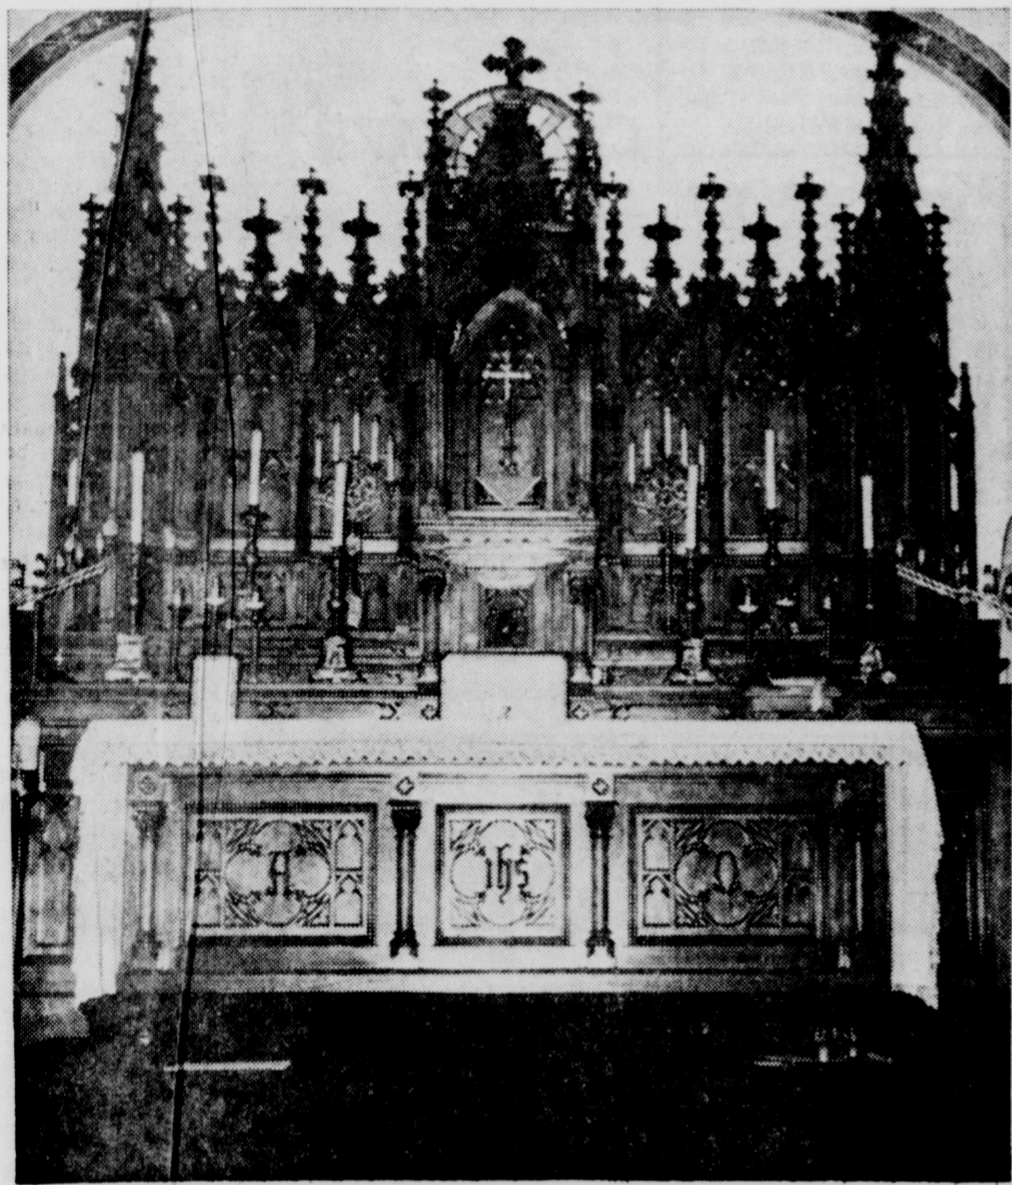

1. OLD PEDAL TYPE ORGAN was used in services at the First Baptist Church in Salem in the early 1900's. Other treasure items of the church include communion pitcher and cups and reference book on Christ dating back to 1833.

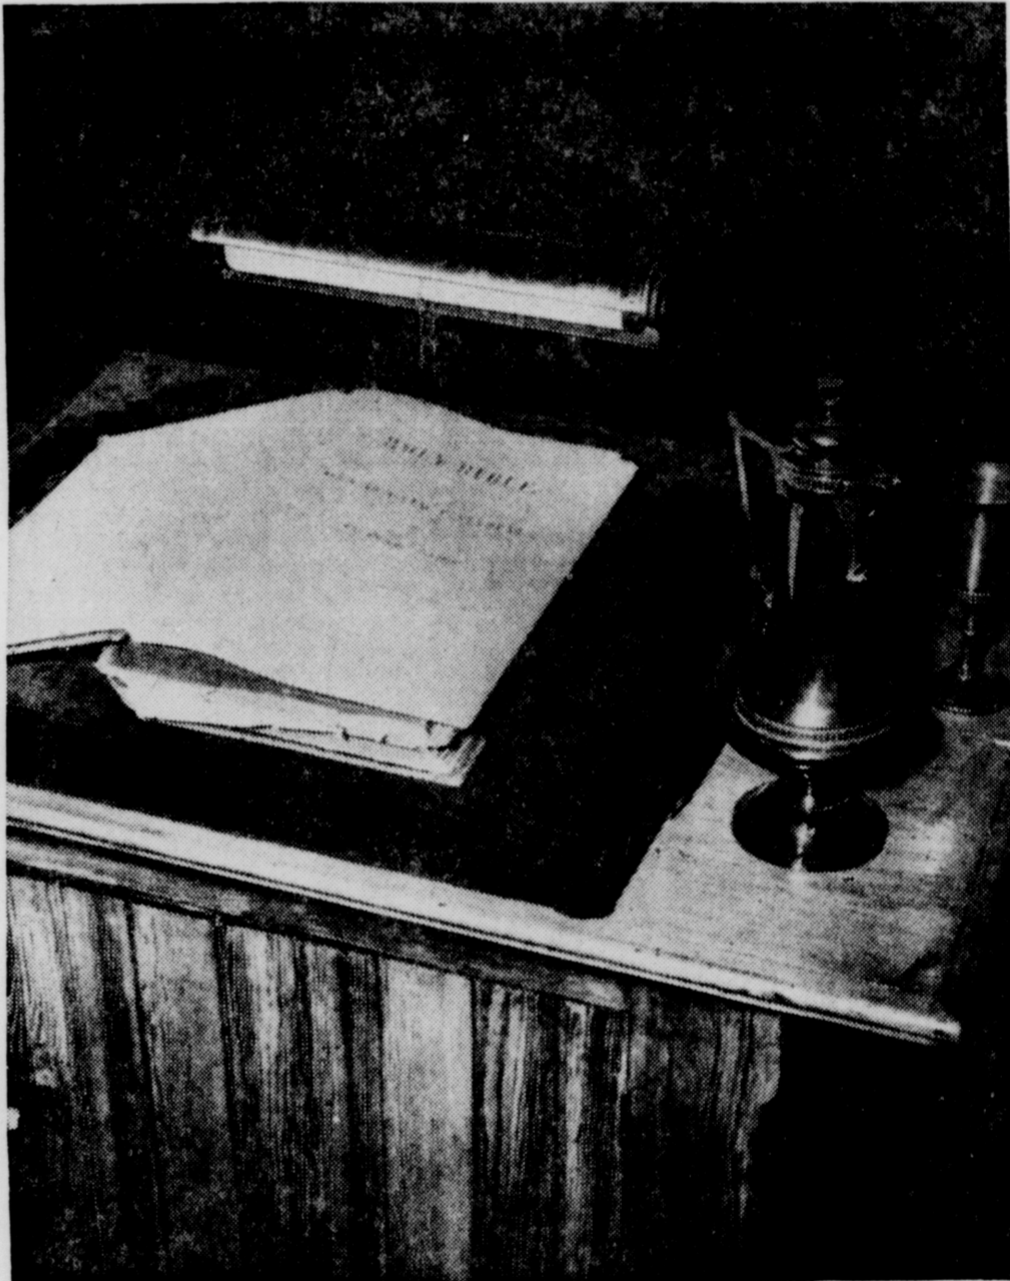

2. COMMUNION FURNITURE and pulpit dates back to 1880 when the first Greenford Christian Church was built. These items were saved from the flames that destroyed the old building in 1914. A new structure rose on the same spot in 1915

3. DON STARBUCK of the Wilbur Friends Church (6th St.) glances over church records dating back to 1839. He is clerk of the Salem Quarterly Meeting.

4. MAIN ALTAR made entirely of carved wood is still in use at St. John's Catholic Church in Summitville after 116 years. The altar was made in Europe and shipped to United States.

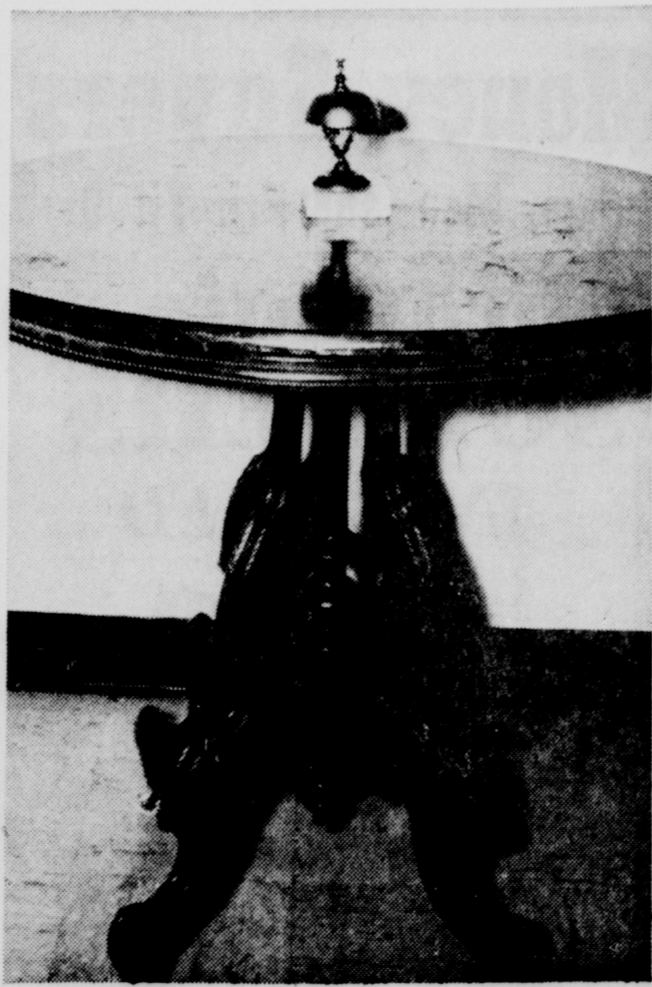

5. OLD MEMENTOS treasured by the Kensington Christian Church include the Bible once used in services, communion set and pulpit all dating back to 1889 when the church was built.

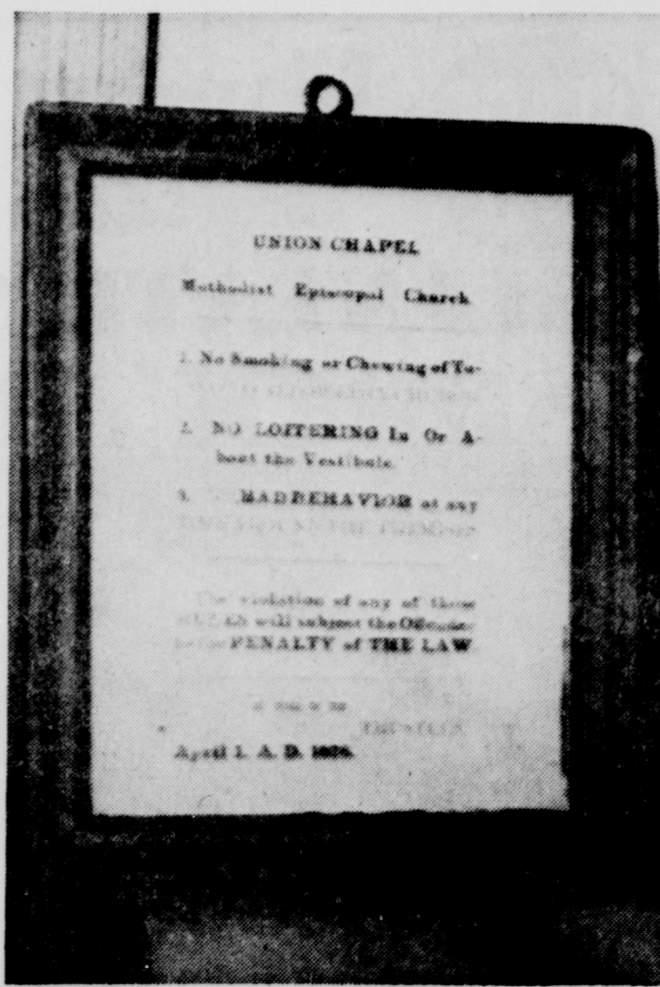

6. THIS SILVER COMMUNION SET was donated to the Hanoverton Presbyterian church near the turn of the century by a group of church ladies.

7. THIS CHEST OF DRAWERS served as the altar for first Mass in Dunganon by Father Edward Fenwick, first pastor of historic St. Phillip Neri church in 1817. He later became the first bishop of Cincinnati.

8. ALL THAT REMAINS OF the original First Presbyterian Church in Leetonia are the table stand and Sunday School call bell dating back to 1880. First church was destroyed by fire in 1900.

9. TRUSTEES OF THE KENSINGTON Methodist Church put up this "set of rules" for church behavior in April, 1878. Violators "were subject to the penalty of the law."

10. AMONG THE RELICS treasured by the Locust Grove Baptist Church are these communion cups given to the church in 1847 the year the church was built. Original structure still stands and has new additions.

Exhibits Skill As Artist At 6

Drawing Comes Naturally For Mike Klasnick

By GLENN SCHOTTEN
Tall and lithe for a six-year-old, the towhead sprawls flat on his belly, gangly legs intertwined overhead like mangrove stems, and sketches his dream car. The hi-fi in the living room gives out with "I Wanna Hold Your Hand," and the legs swing to the Beatle beat.

The free hand clutches the drawing hand, yet does not impede the sure-fire lines that soon shape themselves into an old-time vehicle, replete with wooden spokes and big headlamps.

"And that is the car you hope to have some day?" Little Mark Klasnick didn't answer but drew in his own tousle-haired portrait at the driver's seat. It meant "yes."

THE DRAWING was far beyond the ability of the usual kindergarten scribbles.

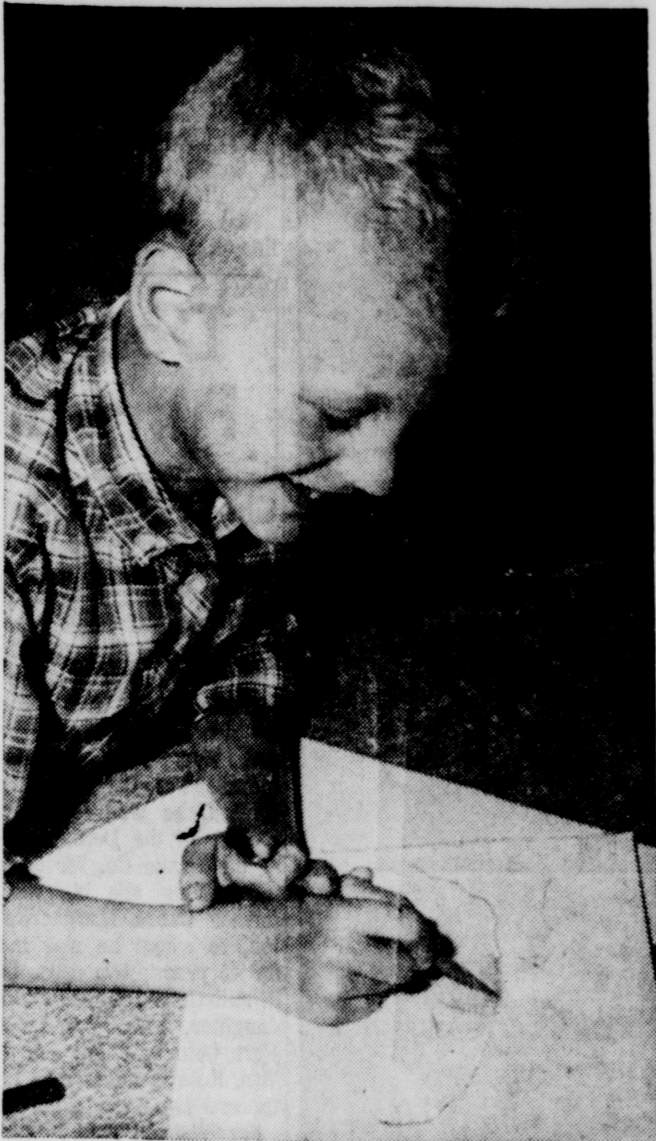

Mark's teacher and principal cautiously avoid the word "prodigy." But each has undergone that first-time shock that comes in the face of such a display of exceptional talent as Mark's.

Mrs. Virginia Leach, who had the privilege of overseeing Mark's sketching skill last year in Fourth St. School kindergarten, says the youth's ability is the most astounding she has witnessed in her four years of teaching.

Mrs. Edith Forbes, Fourth St. School principal and herself a longtime former teacher of art, judges the level of the boy's ability at least sixth grade.

THE QUALITIES THAT make the boy's pencil-and-paper products so startling are several.

(1) They are detailed. His figures are not the stick-figures of the usual beginner. His "Beatles," one of his favorites, both for listening and sketching, and other more conventional humans, exhibit expression, suggest moods.

MARK KLASNICK
A Budding Artist At Age of 6

(2) They have perspective, one of the most difficult qualities even for long-time students to acquire. A lover of horror movies, Mark draws Frankenstein emerging from a three-dimensional grave with headstone with surprising consciousness of angles and artistic form.

(3) They have fluidity of motion, suggestive of a rough sketch made by an artist for the purpose of later refinement. The lines have a feeling of quick decision and self-assuredness, almost breezy in their effect.

Mrs. Nick Klasnick of 431 W. 3rd St., has been sketching since he's been a mere toddler. Some days, his mother says, he turns out pages and pages of drawings. Good as they are, her house would be nothing but a storehouse of his work if she kept them all.

The lad, who dearly loves to draw autos of all kinds, is captivated by mechanically moving parts - gears, wheels, cams - and these often become a part of his budding art, which he'll be testing against St. Paul school first graders next fall.

This Is Life

By RUTH MILLETT

Don't worry—it's just life.

If you have a teen-age daughter, your friends are going to have a hard time reaching you on the phone.

If you attract birds with a bird bath and well-stocked feeder you are also going to attract all the cats in the neighborhood.

If you are lucky enough to have a houseful of labor-saving gadgets you are going to be unlucky enough to have at least one out of order most of the time.

IF YOU NEGLECT the house for a few days you are sure to have unexpected company.

If you come home from a trip pleased as punch over the dress you found in a distant city, you're sure to discover that a friend bought one just like it

If you invite more guests to a barbecue than you can get under cover, you can expect rain.

If you have to telephone 12 women, 10 of them won't be at home or the first call.

If you are taking a shower or washing your hair, the phone or doorbell is sure to ring.

IF YOU DO A SMALL JOB well for a woman's organization you're sure to be asked to do more and bigger jobs.

If your husband and children like roughing it on a vacation, you'll be the one who has it rough. You will be the happiest to return to all those modern conveniences you left behind you.

And no matter where you go on a fishing trip or what date you choose, the fish were biting fine—last week.

Fashion Tips Changing Times

In case you are stuck for conversation during a kaffee klatch or over the bridge table: we get a complete change of hair on our head every four years, a new set of eyebrows every nine months and new eyelashes every six weeks.

Double-Duty Coat

A brass-buttoned, white nylon raincoat serves a double purpose. It makes an ideal topcoat for cool summer evenings.

A-Shape Rainwear
Sure to be a favorite among rainwear is a new cotton poplin cape in the A-shape. It is dry cleanable or washable.

Color for Accent

The girl with the limited clothes budget would be wise to choose her clothes in a basic shade that will give service and use bold, bright colors for accent touches.

A Necessary Hat

One wardrobe asset is a cover-up turban hat to take care of those unexpected dates when you can't do a thing with your hair.

Women's Main Interest

"Thirty is a woman's most difficult age," says actress Ingrid Bergman who will be 47 in August.

Why does she think so? Because "when she's 30, a woman thinks that most of life is already over."

That may be true of the movie star who sees younger actresses crowding her. It may even be true of any woman who is convinced that looks are everything, and who is dismayed by the first signs of fading beauty reflected in her much consulted mirror.

BUT FOR THE AVERAGE housewife and mother, 30 is such a busy, hectic, demanding and often rewarding age that she feels right in the center of life.

Her husband is still on his way up, and she is doing her best to help him get where he wants to go. Her children are out of the baby stages and need her to help solve their problems, to guide them, to reassure them and just to be at home to give a house the warmth and security of a mother's presence.

Her community expects a great deal of her in time and effort.

And her own ego is probably demanding some kind of self-expression.

SO THE average housewife and mother at age 30 faces each day with the silent question: "How am I going to get everything done today I need to do?"

That's her big problem — not: "What can I do with myself—now that most of my life is already over?"

It just depends on whether a woman's main interest in life is her family.

Hints For Single Men

Things a young man rarely thinks about until it's too late, and he has married the girl:

Whether she can cook, or is interested in learning how to do more than warm up a frozen dinner.

Whether she is energetic, or just naturally lazy.

Whether she is fond of children, or whether they drive her crazy.

Whether she likes things neat and tidy, or doesn't mind everlasting clutter.

Whether she can meet trouble courageously, or goes to pieces when things go wrong.

Whether she is mentally sharp, or actually a little on the dumb side.

Whether she really wants to get married, or just wants to get away from home.

Whether she can entertain herself by reading or working at a hobby, or needs constant entertainment because she hates to be alone.

'Summer Bookworms' Form League

128 Children In Library Club Are Real Competitors

One hundred and twenty-eight Salem youngsters in the second through sixth grades are now enrolled in a summer reading club, sponsored by the Salem Public Library and operating competitively in the procedure of two baseball leagues.

The two groups, American and National, are composed of six teams each. In the American League are the Readers, Mustangs, Sting Rays, Beatles, Fast Bats and Kalumet Bears. National League teams are the Polecats, Pee Wees, Greenhorns, Bookworms, Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians. Team names were selected by the members.

EACH CHILD participating in the reading club is a member of one of these teams. To get a home run, he must read four books. To obtain a reading certificate by the time the club finished on Aug. 15, he must make three home runs.

First reports will be accepted through Friday at the library.

All reports are to be written neatly in the booklet provided at the library, except for those children who have just completed second grade, who will report orally. No child may report on more than four books a week except with special permission by the library in the event of absence on vacation or similar reason. Top limit is 36 books for the summer.

AT LEAST FOUR BOOKS

must be non-fiction, but all may be non-fiction if the child prefers, except for two classics. Not more than one of each of the following may be used: Mystery, horse story, dog story, science fiction story. There may be two sports stories used.

Two fiction books will be required to be classics. These must be taken from a list which will be posted and which has been selected from recommended sources. Each book to be read for the club must be approved by the librarian in Aug. 15.

In order to be eligible for the certificates and party which will be given at the close of the book club, 12 approved books must be completed and reported. All reports must be in by Aug. 15.

It's Fashion Forecast for Fall

Suit Skirts to Go Up This Season

SUITS WILL BE THE MAINSTAY of most fall wardrobes. Loopy wool, bone and navy suit (left) was designed by Anne Klein for Junior Sophisticates. The skirt is A-line and long-sleeved pullover is trimmed with navy braid and brass buttons. Off-center closing and knife-pleated skirt highlight David

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEW YORK —(NEA) — We ladies can't order a suit with two pair of pants, but New York designers have at least given us a chance to order one with a skirt and one pair of pants (matching, of course).

Many of the suits shown in the New York fall collections have an A-line, trouser pleated skirt, plus pants to wear with the suit jacket.

Hemlines haven't moved much in the past few seasons, but this time they went up. Skirts are shorter — some at mid-knee. And they are mobile — pleated, flared, paneled and gored.

Most jackets are long, many hip-length, and shoulders, generally, are wider than last year.

You'll find collarless, cardigan jackets with diagonal closings from neck to hem. And there are open jackets, a la chanel, weskits and jackets with batwing sleeves that give a cape effect.

Leather tie belts play a big role in the fall suit scene as do handsome suit ensembles of skirt, blouse and matching stole.

Another new silhouette that promises to get big play is the bus boy suit—short, pocketed jacket and trouser pleated skirt.

The chaps on Madison Avenue gave up gray flannel as a uniform, and now we have it.

Along with tweeds, printed wools, men's suitings, with ribbon trim for softness, and bold checks, gray flannel leads the suit fabric parade.

Gray is the No. 1 color, from pearl to charcoal. Important also are black, navy, espresso and blue and hot pink with brown, carnation (Dior's deep black).

The fall suits and costumes have taken precedence over daytime dresses. And when you see them, you'll know why.

Lemon, Lime Are Summer Hits

Designed by Mr. August for Robert Strong, jacket of lemon daytime dress (left) features white embroidered revers to match embroidered organza overblouse. Square-necked dress, which also comes in aqua, is shirred at the waistline and has trouser pockets. Arnel two-piece dress (right) from the Sacony Rorschach Print collection is in the new inkblot design in royal and lime on a white ground. Ideal for day or informal evenings, this dress is also done in red and purple on white.

Ann Landers Answers

Dear Ann Landers. I went with Virgil for four years. We were both out of college when we met so you know we were not kids. Virgil told me he could not get married for awhile because the shock might kill his mother. I was pretty upset over this but when I met his mother I could see she was difficult and decided to cooperate.

Last Christmas I told Virgil either to give me an engagement ring or we were through. He reluctantly gave me a nice opal in a white gold mounting.

I'm sure it's not my imagination, Ann, but during the last several weeks Virgil has been trying to get the ring away from me. He keeps offering to have it cleaned, etc.

Last night while Virgil and I were watching TV I fell asleep. When I woke up my ring was gone. I turned that sofa inside out and upside down but I couldn't find it anywhere.

I know very well Virgil slipped that ring off my finger and I'd like to know what to do about it. — DIZZGUSTED.

Dear Dizz: Take the hint, Kiddo, and turn the guy loose. Virgil doesn't want to be engaged to you, so face up to facts and don't let him waste any more of your time.

Tape Tricked

Dear Ann: Am I wrong to be upset? The other afternoon our bridge club met and the eight of us yakked about all sorts of things as usual. It was an especially lively gab-session. None of us are expert bridge players and we do a lot more laughing and talking than we do card playing.

Just as we were leaving the hostess said, "Would you girls like to hear what you sound like?" She then led us to the tape recorder which she had hidden behind the sofa. The machine had recorded everything that had been said in those two hours.

She played the beginning of the tape back to us and I wanted to drop through the floor. On the way home three of the girls said they thought it was a dirty trick for her to record our conversation without our knowledge. I'm furious. May we have your opinion?—A.B.D.

Dear A. B.D.: It was indeed a dirty trick. If you decide not to return to the woman's house you would be perfectly justified.

No Instant Father

Dear Ann: I'm 32, never have been married. Now I'm going with a woman I think I want to make my wife.

Greta (not her real name) is good-looking, a fine cook and housekeeper and she is crazy about me. The only thing holding me up is that Greta has three children by a previous marriage.

These kids are fairly well-behaved but sometimes they get on my nerves by just being around. There are times when I walk out of that house and say to myself, "I'm glad to be away from there." And then at other times I tell myself I will get used to it.

I could write two more pages but you get the idea I'm sure. Do you have any advice for me?—UP A TREE.

Dear Up: Yes. Get out of that tree and find a single woman or a widow who has no children. A 32-year-old bachelor who says "sometimes the kids get on my nerves by just being around" should not take on a ready-made family.

True, some fathers (and mothers as well) say to themselves when they leave their little brood after a trying day, "I'm glad to be away from there." Fundamentally they love their children and wouldn't trade them for all the tea in Ceylon but this is not the case with you, Bub.

Confidentially

TO PROOF AGAINST YOU: Sorry, but what you experienced was not love at first sight. It was a chemical reaction. After you became better acquainted you learned that he was truly a fine person. This couldn't have been determined at a glance, however. Learning about people takes time.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

County Legion Council Meets At Local Post

LISBON — Columbiana County Council of the American Legion met Friday night at Charles H. Carey Post 56 in Salem, with James Cregar of Post 374, East Liverpool, County Commander, presiding.

Dwight Bush, of Post 574, North Georgetown, spoke briefly on the junior baseball program and announced that the 10th district tournament will be held today and tomorrow at a Columbiana. Play began this morning at 10 a.m.

He also reminded members of the Legion convention to be held July 42-6 in Cincinnati with the Netherland Hilton Hotel as headquarters.

Walter McCoy of Post 275, Lisbon, county boys state chairman, reported that 27 boys from county posts attended buckeye boys state at Ohio University June 11-20.

Dean Wright of Post 442, Salineville, county second vice cmdr., reported the County Council picnic will be held at Valley Park on Rt. 7 south of Rogers, Sunday Aug. 16, with all members and their families invited.

Ralph Johnson of Post 4, East Liverpool, reported that Xenia's Orphans Home is still asking for trading stamps of any kind. The stamps will be redeemed to help buy new uniforms for the band.

Al Hayes of Post 290, Columbiana, third division commander, reported that there would be a chartered bus available for the trip to the convention in Cincinnati, if at least 30 reservations are made.

A report was made on the 10th District golf tournament which will be held at Hidden Valley Golf Club, near Dover, on Aug. 30. Dover Post 205 will be in charge.

Guests attending last night's meeting were 10th District Cmdr. Bush; Al Hays, asst. 10th district adjutant and Ralph Johnson, 10th District grand Chemist of 40 & 8.

Next county council meeting will be held Aug. 14 at Lisbon post 275.

The Arizona senator perhaps previewed his general election campaign intentions when he called on the Republicans to "lead the crusade against tyranny."

He was cheered roundly in an appearance before the platform committee when he said that the Johnson administration "pretends that communism has so changed that we can now accommodate it."

He made it clear that if he is the nominee, he will mount an all-out attack on President Johnson's foreign and domestic policies.

Affable and conciliatory, Goldwater got heavy applause Friday. He was testy only once.

This was when George A. Parker, a Negro delegate from the District of Columbia, asked whether the senator could "consistently, conscientiously and in good faith use the powers and prestige of the presidency to carry out the civil rights law?" Goldwater voted against the measure.

Columbiana Social

THE 1943 GRADUATING class of Salem City Hospital School of Nursing met for lunch at Heck's Restaurant Monday, with the following members present: Mrs. Audrey Schaefer of Greenford, Mrs. Wanda Ruggels of North Jackson, Mrs. Meriam Walters of Monaca, Pa., Mrs. Virginia Ray of Salem, Mrs. Marjorie Buehle of Alliance and Mrs. Leora Brathuhn of Baltimore, Md.

SOUTHSIDE CLUB MET Thursday with Mrs. Cora Yarian for a coverdinner. Eleven members were present. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Katie Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Linder and family spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Yarian last week. They were returning from a trip through the east and were on their way home in Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Griffin and Mr. and Mrs. Don Hawkins spent the week on a trip to Denver, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Cope of RD 2, New Waterford, called on Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe Poppel.

Miss Debbie Poppel and Miss Lori Bowman spent a week at Camp Luz at Orrville. Debbie was a guest of Lori's.

Tavern Patron Cyclist Fined At Court Hearings

A W. State St. tavern brawl Friday night about 10 ended in three charges being lodged against a 35-year-old patron who was fined a total of $35 and costs by Mayor Dean Cranmer today.

Also fined today for driving a motorcycle while under the influence of alcohol was a Damascus man.

Glen E. Saftred of W. State St. was picked up by city police at Dale's Place on W. State St. Friday night when he allegedly started an altercation there. He was fined $10 and costs on a charge of intoxication after the arrest.

The proprietor, Dale Ritchie, filed an affidavit charging Saftred with disorderly conduct for which he was fined another $10 and costs. Saftred was fined another $15 and costs for assault and battery after Mrs. Ruth Deland, a patron, testified Saftred hit her in the face.

The motorcyclist, William B. Davis, 30, of Damascus was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail on the drunk driving charge. Driving a motorcycle, he was hailed down by city police on Blackburn Hill after they spotted him "crashing" the red light at W. State St. and Howard St. intersection at 4 a.m. today.

Police also reported a minor mishap Friday at 4:10 p.m. on S. Broadway just south of E. State St. Anita Miglitrini, 17, of 1325 Mount St. was going north on Broadway when Merle Burton, 68, of RD 1, backed from a parking place into the side of the girl's car.

With Patients

Robert Johnson, 48, of RD 2, Salem, was treated for chest injuries and abrasions of the right hand Friday at Alliance Manufacturing Co. in Alliance. He was treated at 11:25 a.m. and released.

Resources Division Opens Lisbon Office

A realignment of field inspectors in the Ohio Division of Reclamation, Department of Natural Resources, is announced by Irving I. Dickman, the chief. Five districts have been set up.

G. Orville Bates, assistant chief, who has been with the division for 11 years, will supervise the inspectors and be in charge of law enforcement. "We have given this new arrangement much thought and we feel that it will greatly strengthen our entire operation," said Dickman.

District 1, headquartered at Lisbon, has Hilliard Mullins as inspector. His counties will include, Portage, Columbiana, Carroll and Stark, in addition to Mahoning County.

FACES PERMIT HEARING Norman Reynolds, operator of the Cloverleaf on Rt. 30, RD 2, Lisbon, has been cited to appear before the State Liquor Control Board Tuesday to answer to charges of a liquor sale while permit was under suspension and for having gambling devices on the premises. The charge was filed by state liquor agents March 3.

Robert Neapolitan of RD 1, New Waterford, was cited by the liquor department for delinquent sales tax assessment.

Local Woman Hurt In Spectacular Mishap Here

It was after hours at the Mullins Mfg. Corp. plant on Railroad St. but Mrs. Esther L. Patterson, 50, of 840 W. Pershing St. paid a surprise visit, crashing her car through a brick wall and ending up in the conference room about 3:25 a.m. today. The car narrowly missed two steel supporting beams by two feet on each side.

The woman was taken to Salem City Hospital where she is listed as "fair" with lacerations of the face, hands and knees received when the car leaped into the basement room below the Mullins' personnel and employment offices. She was admitted at 7:50 a.m.

Damage Extensive Hundreds of dollars of damage was caused when the vehicle shot through a surprisingly small space on the east side of the building after Mrs. Patterson, heading west on Railroad St., struck two utility poles on the north side of the street.

Most expensive of materials wrecked were a ditto machine, a movie projector and booth and several filing cabinets, desks and chairs. After striking the reproducing machine, the car slid the projection chamber across the room about 10 feet.

Police said the path of Mrs. Patterson's car from the time she struck the first pole near S. Ellsworth to the building measured 93 feet. One pole was nicked and the other was knocked over.

The conference room where Mullins' training sessions and other meetings are held for Mullins' workers was converted

Potters Convention In California Ends

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters wound up its 70th annual convention Friday at Long Beach, Calif., after the delegates picked Vancouver, B.C., Canada as the site of the 1965 meeting.

The Canadian city was chosen over four others, including East Liverpool. The vote showed 118 delegates in favor of Vancouver, with 163 favoring Miami, Fla. Portland, Ore., received 41 votes, while East Liverpool and Atlantic City, N. H., received 31 votes each.

At its closing session in the Lafayette Hotel, the union voted donations of $2,000 to the AFL CIO committee on political education and the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library.

The convention ended with reports of the international officers.

The convention got under way Monday. About 500 represented East Liverpool locals. Over 2000 delegates attended.

Some of the delegates will return by plane, while others are traveling by train and private car.

Scranton's votes are favorable, but not ledged or instructed. He also is expected to draw some—but not necessarily all—of the 12 votes credited to New York's Gov. Rockefeller and the 45 who favor Lodge, the former ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Goldwater's total could spurt upward early next week as various delegations caucus at San Francisco.

He has, for instance, 15 known first-ballot votes in the Ohio delegation which has been released from its favorite son status by Gov. James A. Rhodes. But there are indications that more Goldwater support will be shown when the Ohio delegation caucuses Monday.

Woman Faces Hearing In Cigarettes Theft

LISBON — A 23-year-old Youngstown woman charged with grand larceny yesterday had her preliminary hearing set for Monday at 2:30 p.m. in county court.

Annabelle Clark of 553 Andrews Ave., had her bond set at $1,000 by County Judge James MacDonald after she was brought into court by Wellsville police for allegedly taking 67 cartons of cigarettes valued at $173.78 from the Daney Mason Footliner March 7.

Two others, Carlton Council, 27, and Mary Ellen Lawson, 19, both of Youngstown, have been indicted by grand jury for same offense. Both pleaded guilty and requested probation.

Mrs. Clark was unable to make bond and was reprimanded to the County Jail.

A Salem area youth was also cited to juvenile court after he forced an elderly local motorist off the pavement Friday at 7:30 p.m. on the Route 62, Damascus Road, four miles west of the Salem corporation limits.

Cited was Willis W. McEl-downey, 17, of RD 1, who, the Patrol said, pulled from a private drive into the path of a car operated by Harold E. Keefe, 60, of 1254 Third St., Salem. Keefe veered off the road and struck mailboxes owned by Harry W. Weikart and Jack Kelly of RD 1. There was no contact between the cars.

Route 30 Mishap In a mishap Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Route 30, about three miles west of Lisbon, Leslie E. Blackburn, 20, of RD 1, Salineville was cited for failing to stop in the assured clear distance after his car struck the rear of another eastbound car operated by Bertha A. Steen, 59, of Haywood, W. Va. The Patrol said he came up from behind too fast, tried to pass, but struck the left rear of the woman's car.

A frightened Mahoning County motorist escaped injury when his car rolled over after he tried to avoid what he thought was an impending collision Friday at 4:20 p.m. at the intersection of Routes 62 and 165 north of Salem.

Robert Van Skoy, 21, of Youngstown was going north on Route 62 when he suspected that a car operated by Paul Neda Jr., 40, of Detroit was going to pull out from Route 165 at the stop sign. The youth slammed on his brakes, slid around in the roadway, overturned and hit the side of the car of the flabbergasted Neda, who was still stopped. VanSkoy was cited by the Canfield patrol for failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

A youth driving a Youngstown florist company delivery truck told the Patrol he wrecked his Volkswagen when he reached for a clipboard on his seat, lost control of the vehicle, went off the left side and rolled over, striking a utility pole at 4:15 p.m. on Route 62, a mile north of the VanSkoy mishap. He was neither injured or cited.

Principal Resigns At Knox Building John A. Mensch, principal at Knox School for the past year, resigned Friday to accept a similar post at Fairless school in Stark County.

West Branch School District Executive Head Clinton Heacock said the school board probably would name a successor to Mensch at its meeting Tuesday evening.

Other items on the board's agenda are naming of an assistant high school principal and adoption of the 1965 budget.

Lisbon, Canfield Patrol Officers Are Transferred

Cpls. Edgar D. Wain and Edward Gentofante of the Lisbon and Canfield barracks of the State Highway Patrol, respectively, will transfer this month to other Ohio posts and two other corporals will be assigned to the two barracks as a result of the reassignment of 23 men to corporal last Spring.

Cpl. Wain has been transferred to the Massillon post and Cpl. Centofante to the Medina post. Both are well-known law enforcement officers in the Columbiana and Mahoning County district.

Wain will be replaced by Cpl. H. R. Reinke of the Ashtabula barracks and Centofante will be succeeded by Cpl. James Getz of Medina.

Wain has been at the Lisbon barracks eight years and Centofante at Canfield for five years.

The 23 corporals involved in the mass move will go to Patrol headquarters in Columbus Tuesday for briefing before taking their new posts. The moves will be made before July 23.

Man Jailed For Lisbon Car Theft

LISBON — An East Liverpool youth was sentenced Friday for driving a motor vehicle without the owner's consent when he appeared before county Judge James MacDonald.

Franklin D. Watkins, 19, of 803 Bradshaw Ave., was sentenced to six months in the county jail and was fined $500 for the taking of a 1959 convertible from the square in Lisbon on Memorial Day and driving it to Akron.

The fine was suspended, providing Watkins makes restitution to owner, Dean Senanefes, for personal items taken from the car and not recovered or damaged.

The youth was picked up by East Liverpool police at request of Akron police for theft of two cars in Akron and was placed on probation for those thefts.

will step aside in favor of Fannin, Arizona's only three-term Republican governor.

Fannin reportedly will do the same if Goldwater fails at San Francisco.

The Democratic ticket, in addition to Peterson, will offer: Roy Elson, administrative assistant to Arizona's veteran Sen. Carl Hayden; Renz Jennings, justice of the Arizona Supreme Court; George Gavin, Scottsdale insurance man and former state chairman of the Senate Democratic Committee; Robert P. Ketterer of Tempe, a school administrator and president of the Arizona State Democratic Club, and Raymond G. Neely of Tucson, a restaurant employee and political unknown.

and talked with all the possible GOP presidential nominees this year.

"For the life of me, I can't understand why some editors and columnists think I was weasling or changing my position" because he had not publicly supported one of the candidates.

"I decry this belief that any one man, by putting his finger on this or that individual, decides millions of voters against their will," Eisenhower said.

The former president scoffed at what he called talk that he had pulled the rug from under Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton when the governor reportedly was ready to get into the GOP presidential race at the Governors' Conference in Cleveland.

"I never put a rug under him," he said.

Another question that came up was the conference Sen. Barry Goldwater had with Eisenhower before announcing he would vote against the civil rights bill because he regarded two sections unconstitutional.

Eisenhower said he told Goldwater that if he were in the Senate, he would vote for the bill.

TV-Radio Today

By ALAN GILL
The Terrible Tempered Captain — II

The irascible Capt. Binghamton of ABC-TV's "McHales Navy," who is really a 37-year-old actor named Joe Flynn, was in New York a few days last week, feeling quite literally poor. In his early post-war years he appeared in some 50 plays — some on the road, some in Hollywood, but most here on Broadway — and Flynn does not recall those days in sweet tranquility.

"A great sense of poverty comes over me, he says, "and, though I've never been a tightwad, I can't spend a nickel here. We can be staying at a good hotel, but I get the nagging feeling that someone's about to turn us out of our lodgings."

On the other hand, Flynn, a native of Youngstown, Ohio, is one of the great enthusiasts about Los Angeles. "From the beginning, my greatest desire was to go there; but I felt I'd never live long enough. I adored it at the first crack, from the moment I saw the first mountain and palm tree. It still thrills me beyond reality."

Flynn's New York days are not the only gaudy memories he has. There were also those days, immediately after World War II, when he was a ventriloquist. "I was a terrible ventriloquist, he says, "and I'd be worse to day.

"ONE NEW YEARS EVE, I remember, I played a dive in a Pennsylvania town — a good booking because the normal salary of $25 to $50 was doubled on New Years Eve. So there I was with a $100 date: the big time. At midnight, I was at the microphone, calling the countdown for the new year and at the stroke of 12 someone threw a bomb. It was a powerful thing that knocked me into the wings. To this day I don't know if it was thrown in celebration of the holiday or as a comment on my act."

Today, Flynn thinks of himself solely as an actor, though he is constantly socking away comic material against a rainy day, hoping he'll never have to use it. "I get personal appearance offers quite often, because of the show, he says, "but no one will believe me when I tell them I don't do anything. I don't yodel or dance the hora or make paper pictures."

"And I can see them thinking, 'The s.o.b.s holding out for more money. I was tempted to go out with Tom Conway in a stock company of 'Who Was That Lady I Saw Yu With?' But he preferred going zipping home to Chagrin Falls."

Flynn HAS OFTEN used his spare time to good advantage, though. He was in the movie "Lover, Come Back and the about-to-be-released screen version of "McHales Navy. In addition, he and Tom Conway appear in the pilot episode of ABC's fall series, "Broadside

FLASHING SWORDPLAY is displayed by Sean Flynn, son of the late Errol Flynn, in the film, "The Son of Captain Blood," which opens Sunday at the Salem Drive-In Theater. Flynn plays the part of an adventuresome young man who follows in his father's footsteps and goes to sea.

— a female answer to "McHale."

Going into his third season as Capt. Binghamton, Flynn confronts the problem of the ennui that sets in with a long run. "There are a lot of things an actor should do about becoming bored, he muses, "but I don't know what they are. I became an actor because I wanted to play many parts. Play just one and the joy soon goes out of it. It's like working for the May Co. — a Los Angeles department store — "only the salary is higher."

"There are fewer and fewer jobs for the actor, as the TV series swell to 90 minutes and then run for season after season, and it takes courage to leave the security of a hit and work at this part and that, in movies, TV and theater. You never know, really, if you have the stature — if you're big and strong enough to risk it. You can be popular and famous, you know, and still be laid off for six months."

BUT THERE ARE NO REGRETS — no regrets, even, that he ran for the Ohio legislature in 1950 and lost by a mere 600 votes. (His interest in politics continues warmly 14 years later: Flynn recently expended time and money helping Pierre Salinger win the Democratic Senatorial nomination in California.) "I look back at my own campaign, says he, "and I'm glad. The assemblyman's pay back home is $360 a month. If I'd won that election, I'd be a ruined man."

Lema Lauds Caddy For Help In British Open Victory

Finishes With 279 For Title

Nicklaus' Rally Earns 2nd Place

By TOM REEDY
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Tony Lema carted the British Open Golf Championship home with him today but he says he only won 49 per cent of it.
"Tip Anderson was at least 50 per cent of this team and I reckon to say 51 per cent would not be too far wrong," the 30-year-old San Leandro, Calif., pro said.
Anderson whose right name is James Junior, may be the best caddy in the world. He's 28, the son of James Anderson who still is caddying at famed old St. Andrews, and he steered Arnold Palmer to two British Open titles and a second place that was only one shot short.
Lema's first go at British courses was here in the past three days and he whipped "the Old Lady" with 73-68-70 for 279 and a five-shot triumph over runnerup Jack Nicklaus.
"Tip did it," he said. "He taught me the first lesson, to run seven irons onto those tough greens. I put my wedge away at his advice and that's the best thing I ever did."
The great Bobby Jones required something like five years to learn you cannot attack the greens on the Old Course but must approach them with shots that might not look spectacular or even good.
Lema learned that lesson in one short morning—his opening-round 73 after only 25 holes of practice. Anderson steered him.
Said Tip, after the winning performance:
"He's a great player. His swing is about as sweet as Sam Snead's. There's very little difference in his game when you compare it to Mr. Palmer's. He is more relaxed. When something goes wrong, like a six he took at the fifth hole Friday, he forgets it immediately."
Lema's triumph qualified him for the $100,000 World Series of Golf along with Palmer, the Master's champion, and Ken Venturi, U. S. Open King. The fourth competitor will be the PGA champion to be selected at Columbus, Ohio, starting next Thursday.

Alou Gets 6 Hits As Giants Beat Cubs 10-3; Bucs Win

By MURRAY CHASS
Has Jesus Alou given the San Francisco Giants a sign?
Alou, youngest of the three baseball brothers, became the first National Leaguer to get six hits in a game in more than four seasons Friday as the Giants trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-3.
The victory, coupled with first-place Philadelphia's 5-1 loss to Cincinnati, moved the Giants to within one-half game of the league lead.
Alou, 21-year-old rookie, belted a home run and five singles in six times at bat. The last NL player to get six hits was Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates. He did it May 13, 1960.
That, in case you've forgotten, is the year the Pirates won the pennant.
The Giants will need more than signs to win this year, but a few more similar performances from Alou certainly will help the cause.
The right fielder from the Dominican Republic was walloping in the .250s and low .260s before he hit safely against six different Cub pitchers. The spurge rocketed his average 18 points to .280.
Elsewhere in the NL, Los Angeles edged Houston 4-3, Pittsburgh dumped Milwaukee 5-1 and St. Louis beat New York 3-1.
Besides Alou's rampage, Willie Mays slammed two homers, giving him a total of 27. He con-

CIO 3816 Rolls To 9th 6-2; Fishers, Mullins Post Wins

CIO 3816 took a 3-1 lead in the second inning, then went on to knock off VFW 6-2 in junior baseball Class E competition at Centennial Park Friday.
Fisher's rallied for 18 runs in the last two innings to beat Shaffer Ford 21-5, and Mullins handed Elks a 7-6 setback in Class F action at Memorial Park.
Hunt's Independent Union came from behind with a six-run rally in the fifth to trim Brickers 11-6, while Petrucci's used the long ball to clip Scott's Sports 22-10 in Class G.
TOM DOMINIC hurled a four-hitter to spark Moose to a 17-4 victory over Hobbycraft at Buckeye Field, and in two contests played at Kelley Field Stark's Colonial Attic edged Cherry Hill 11-9, and Merchant's Vending upset Dairy Isle 18-8, in Class H.
Bob Rozeski socked a two-run home run, Dick Thomas belted a triple and winning pitcher Bob Luttmers hit a double in CIO 3816's three-run second.
Ron Parolanti had a double and two singles to pace the winners (9-1). Luthers had a pair of hits.
A triple by Ray McNutt and doubles by Jack Mack and Ron Whitehill were the big hits for VFW (4-5).
In the sixth inning, Fisher's tallied eight runs without even getting a hit. The winners (9-2) picked up 10 markers in the seventh.
Five singles, a pair of walks, an error and home runs by Chuck Jackson and Lou Markovich brought in the markers.
Winning pitcher Val Altomere gave up hits to Shaffer's Jack Brantingham and Tom Lantz and that was all they got. Markovich came on in relief in the fifth and held the losers hitless the rest of the way, striking out four and walking none.
Mullins broke a 6-6 tie in the seventh as George Zeller's, who had singled, came racing home with the winning run after one man was out.
Elks (9-3) outhit the winners 11-9. Tom Herron and Steve Smith had three singles apiece.
Rich Rambacker, Scott Cody and Zellers led the winners (7-3) with two hits each.
Four walks, fielder's choice, an error, two singles and a double by Chuck Baker gave Hunt's six markers.
Brickers had taken a 4-1 lead in the bottom of the third.
CRAIG ANDERSON led the winners (9-3) with a triple and double. Dal Falk led the losers (5-8) with two singles.
Larry Hrvatin had two home runs and a pair of singles to pace Petrucci's (6-6). Dan Hipely socked a homer and triple, and Mike Mehno hit a home run.
Mike Phillips had two doubles, and Tom Bezeredi a couple of singles for the winners.
Rudy Markovich collected all three of Scott's (6-7) hits as he singled in the fourth, fifth and seventh frames.
Moose (11-2) broke open its game with Hobbycraft with 10 runs in the fifth inning. Bob Baker paced the winners with a home run and two singles.
Steve Fisher collected a triple and two singles, and Bob Zellers and Dave White each had two hits.
Kim Cranmer had three of Hobbycraft's (5-7) three hits. Alan Hoffman had the other.
Winning hurler Dominic struck out 13 and walked two.
STARK'S ICED ITS contest in the fifth with four runs. Ernie Emmerling led the winners (7-5) with a triple and double. Eric Steel and Randy Baker had two hits each.
Losing pitcher John Mehno of Cherry Hill (1-12) had a home run, double and two singles. He also struck out 13 and walked six.
Mershan's Vending tallied nine runs in the first two innings, and added nine more in the last two frames.
Key hits were a pair of home runs, a double and single by Ed Hardy. Shane Franks socked two triples, drove in four runs, and scored four times.
Jay Shoff, the winning pitcher, held the losers (8-5) to four hits. He struck out eight.

12 Races Set For Canfield Tonight

An outstanding list of drivers again will be battling for top honors at Canfield Speedway tonight when the late models and amateurs get together for a 12-race program.
Jim Case is the latest late model winner and he will be pushing the field of 19 entries in the 25-lap feature.
The field of starters also will include Roy Gemberling of Kent who has rolled up more than 10 feature victories, including one here at Canfield, in tracks throughout Ohio.
Jim Bickerstaff of Mineral Ridge and Bill Forney again will have to rule as favorites. Bickerstaff has two victories, but Forney is still looking for No. 1 at Canfield.
Dick Lantz of Newton Falls will be on hand, while Mason Heister of Youngstown, who drove a brilliant race last week, also will be back. Other entries include Junior Postlewait of Mineral Ridge, who made his best showing of the year by running second to Case.
Tom Wimer of Austintown will be back along with Bud Wilhelm of Canfield, Ed Mitchell of Warren, Tom Jarrett of Austintown, Bob Greer of Hubbard, Phil Wertz of Canfield, Dave Benner of Canfield, Nook Walters of Niles, George Hegedus of Cortland, Rabbi Hipley of Salem and many others.
The big amateur field will include some 70 cars.
Because of the annual horse show at Canfield, racing will not be held the weekend of July 18. However, the amateurs and late models will be back again July 25. Feature of this date will be the annual late model mid-season championship — a 50-lap duel over the quarter-mile track.

Yankees Romp 4-1; Chisox Sweep Twin Bill

Chance Socks 2 Home Runs As Indians Blank Orioles

By MIKE RATHET
The Cleveland franchise is supposed to be sick, and even the healthiest guy on the club is taking pills.
That would be rookie sensation Bob Chance, who keeps popping diet pills into his mouth and homers into the stands.
Chance, a 6-foot-4 behemoth who weighs in at 215 pounds after missing his meals, continued his slugging Friday night slamming two homers and driving in five runs as the Indians ended a five-game losing streak by walloping American League leading Baltimore 8-0.
Originally signed by the San Francisco Giants—"I signed a contract for nothing"—Chance was drafted by the Indians in 1961 and eventually made it to the majors at the tail end of the 1963 season. Then, in spring training, he let his weight balloon. The Indians prescribed a diet.
"I still take my diet pills every day," says the 24-year-old left-handed swinger. "I don't feel weak at all."
Steve Barber can vouch for that. The Oriole starter was tagged for a two-run shot by Chance in the first inning and a three-run job in the third. The homers were the 10th and 11th for Chance, lifted his average to .345 and gave him an amazing 40 runs batted in for only 142 trips to the plate.
While Chance, the only Cleveland regular hitting over .300, took care of the hitting, Jack Kralick took care of the pitching, posting the Indians' first shutout since June 17 by bringing his record to 9-4 with a six-hitter.
The loss trimmed the Orioles lead to 2 1/2 games over the second-place New York Yankees, who whipped Washington 4-1 for Whitey Ford's 11th victory.
Elsewhere, Harmon Killebrew hit his 31st homer as Minnesota clobbered Kansas City 9-3, the Chicago White Sox swept the Los Angeles Angels 7-4 and 6-1 while Boston defeated Detroit 7-6 before the Tigers took the nightcap 8-3.
Ford, 11-2, pitched four scoreless innings, gave up a homer to Don Leppert in the fifth and left in the sixth. Reliever Bill Stafford came on and pitched hitless ball over the final 3-13 innings.
The Yankees got the only runs they needed when Clete Boyer hit a two-run homer off Senators' starter Buster Narum in the second inning.
Killebrew's homer was one of four hit by the Twins in a 19-hit attack. oRokie Tony Oliva collected No. x9 while Don Mincher and Earl Battey hit consecutive shots in the ninth inning.
Rocky Colavito homered for the A's off Jim (Mudcat) Grant who brought his record to 6-5 with his third victory in four decisions since he was acquired from Cleveland.
Juan Pizarro joined Detroit's Dave Wickersham as the AL's only 12-game winners but needed Hoyt Wilhelm's relief before the White Sox subdued the Angels in the opener. Floyd Robinson and Gerry McNertney each stroked three hits in a 13-hit attack.
Joel Horlen held the Angels to two hits in the nightcap. The White Sox broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth with four runs. An error by Felix Torres opened the door for Robinson's tie-breaking, two-run single.
Dick McAuliffe hit three homers for the Tigers in the double-header, triggering the nightcap triumph with a three-run shot in the third inning.
McAuliffe hit two homers in the opener and Gates Brown added one, but the Red Sox had four — by Dick Stuart, Lee Thomas, pitcher Earl Wilson Jones, who won it with a two-run pinch-hit shot in the ninth.

Jones Is Favored In Ohio Amateur

By FRITZ HOWELL
CINCINNATI (AP) — Rick Jones of Columbus, who recently surrendered his professional status but retained his professional touch, is the No. 1 choice to capture the 58th Ohio Amateur Golf Championship.
The 30-year-old steel salesman who won the 1956 National Intercollegiate crown while at Ohio State, is one of the classy quartet appearing today in the 36-hole semifinals of the match play tournament at Maketewah Country Club.
Jones has given the 6,657-yard layout a beating all week. He was two under par in the 18-hole qualifier and another 15 under for 60 holes against four defeated foes.
Jones, who tried professional golf for a couple of years after winning the NCAA, was reinstated as an amateur in March, but he doesn't play like one.
His opponent today was Carl Unis, 26-year-old public linkster from Cleveland, a long-hitting insurance salesman. Unis is bucking the tradition, for no free course contestant has ever captured the amateur laurels. Unis has the game to do it, however, for none of his opponents has carried him past the 16th hole.
Another reformed professional, 38-year-old attorney Bill Anderson of Wyoming — once a stand-out football end for the University of Cincinnati — met 20-year-old George McManis, a junior at the Bearcat college, in today's other 36-hole clash.
Anderson never played as a professional, but was listed as one until a couple of weeks ago because the U. S. Golf Association frowned upon his accepting a car he won in a hole-in-one contest. McManis, a handsome blond youngster, is a Long Island native and transferred to Cincinnati last summer from the University of Houston.
The public linkster, collegian and two ex-professionals won their way into the semi-finals—

Coastal Lightships Being Replaced With Steel Piers

Diamond Shoals Skipper Sorry About Change

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Life on the platforms will be more comfortable than it is on the lightships, but it will be monotonous, the skipper said.

Chief Warrant Boatswain Donald E. Dean, commanding officer of the Chesapeake Lightship, was talking about the four-legged steel platforms that gradually are replacing most of the lightships on the U. S. East Coast.

Dean, 37, sat in his cabin on the lightship, in port for her annual two-month period of dry-docking and maintenance.

"THE MEN will be more comfortable on the platforms," he said, "because their quarters will be larger and they won't be bouncing up and down. Lightships ride rough when the wind gets up."

"But there will be only four men on a platform, compared with 16 on a lightship. The smaller number will provide less companionship and make platform duty monotonous."

Platforms are in operation at Buzzards Bay, Mass., and Providence, R. I. Others now being built will replace lightships off Savannah, Ga., and Wilmington, N. C.

A $3.5 million item in the budget for the next fiscal year will provide platform replacements for the Chesapeake Lightship, anchored 12 miles east of Cape Henry, Va., and the Diamond Shoals Lightship, 14 miles south-east of Cape Hatteras, N. C.

AVERAGE AGE of East Coast lightships is about 35 years. Four of them are more than 50 years old. The Coast Guard says platforms will last longer than lightships, require fewer men and be easier to maintain.

Platforms are not planned for the West Coast because deeper water offshore there makes them impractical, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Each platform will have a tower housing a lantern of 3.5 million candlepower. The roof of the crew's quarters will serve as a helicopter landing pad.

THE DIAMOND SHOALS LIGHTSHIP, whose beacon warns mariners of dangerous shoals off the North Carolina coast, is one of several Coast Guard lightships that will be replaced by four-legged steel platforms.

Dean said he would not like platform duty.

"It would be all right if the men could be removed from a platform long before the wind builds up," he said, "but freak storms come up quickly, and in such cases the only thing the men can do is sit there and hope the platform won't topple."

"LIGHTSHIP DUTY is fairly good," said Dean. He has been in the Coast Guard 20 years, the past 22 months as skipper of the Chesapeake Lightship.

"We have television and we get good reception from the stations in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Hampton," he said.

"We have movies every night. We have a good library. The men study for advancement in ratings. The food is good. The crew is happy. I've had no requests for transfers and no discipline problems in my 22 months aboard."

Lightship crewmen get 13 days leave for 28 days aboard. They stand two four-hour watches in 24 hours. Five men are on leave at all times. The men are shuttled to and from their ships by Coast Guard cutters and patrol vessels, which also carry food and other supplies.

The Chesapeake Lightship, 630 gross tons, 133 feet long and 30 feet abeam, was built in 1930. The Diamond Shoals Lightship, 600 gross tons, 128 feet long and 30 feet abeam, was built in 1946.

A PREDECESSOR of the present Diamond Shoals Lightship was shelled and sunk by a German submarine in World War I.

On Aug. 6, 1918, the U. S. boat singled out a merchant ship a mile and a half northeast of the lightship, fired 40 shells at her and set her afire.

The lightship's wireless warned other nearby merchant ships of the submarine's presence. The submarine then shelled and sank the lightship, whose crew, uninjured, escaped in a lifeboat.

Twenty-five ships that heard the lightship's wireless warning took refuge in Lookout Light and escaped attack by the submarine.

Upside Down License Plate Causes Stir

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—When Miss Edna Lawrence of Belvidere, Ill., received a letter from the Pontiac, Ill., police threatening arrest for failure to pay a parking ticket, she thought something was wrong. She had never been there.

And when a Bloomington, Ill., insurance company called her about a recent traffic accident, she was sure something was wrong. He had been in no mishaps.

The trouble, as she finally learned from state police, was caused by a pair of 1964 Illinois automobile license plates.

John E. Harrison of Wildwood, Ill., who recently received a parking ticket in Pontiac and also was in an accident, has been displaying his plates upside down since last winter.

His number is 660-898; hers 868-099.

START TRAINING PROGRAM COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University in Athens and Western Reserve University in Cleveland will begin a week from Monday to train advisors and counselor aides to assist "disadvantaged" youth.

In announcing that the two universities would take part in the nationwide rush program, Ohio's Bureau of Unemployment Compensation said 160 persons are enrolled. Classes will continue until Sept. 15.

Financed through Federal Manpower Development and Training Act funds, the courses include labor market economics, poverty and the culture, job counseling and placement techniques and employment service operations.

RECORD INCOME TAKEN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An all-time high of $1.3 million was collected by the Secretary of State's office during the book-keeping year that ended June 30, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reports.

Brown said Friday that the total, which has been turned over to the general fund, exceeded by about $43,000 the previous record set in 1961. The Secretary of State's office derives the funds from corporation and election fees.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

Last week was the second biggest week we ever had out here at the Country Store. Our last anniversary week was the only one which was bigger.

We are really moving a lot of food out here, every department is doing well. Ray, in the produce department had his biggest day ever last week. He sold more than one thousand dollars worth of produce in one day and that isn't bad out here in the country where almost everyone who shops here drives out of their way to get here.

Ray operates a fine produce department.

Salem Woman Is Ohio Delegate

Mrs. Astry Attends GOP Convention

Mrs. Letha Astry of 1490 E. State St. is en route to California where she will be an official delegate from the 18th Congressional District at the Republican Convention opening Monday in San Francisco.

Mrs. Astry, Republican state central committeewoman, and Robert M. Bell of Steubenville, committeeman, are the Ohio 18th district's delegates, while William Magers of Cadiz and Atty. Clyde Chalfant of Steubenville are the alternates.

Mrs. Astry, left Salem July 4 and planned to vacation throughout the western states, before arriving in San Francisco for the convention.

An active worker in the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organizations, Mrs. Astry was chairman of the federation's finance committee in 1955-56 and originated the idea for the Carillon in the Robert A. Taft Memorial in Washington, D. C.

In addition to her other activities, she was an alternate delegate to the 1956 GOP convention in Chicago and in the same year was a member of the national campaign activities committee for the National Federation of Republican Women.

Mrs. Astry received three

Mrs. Letha Astry

awards from the American Red Cross in 1944-45-46 for her work in the Motor Corps during World War II.

Active in local affairs, she was the first woman trustee of the First Presbyterian Church and received recognition by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church of the United States for outstanding work.

Granges

Pleasant Valley
Pleasant Valley Grange met at the grange hall July 7 at 8:30 p.m. with Worthy Master, Agnes Clark presiding. Voting for delegates and alternates to the state grange was held.

Elkrun Grange presented the traveling tools. The evening program was under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Moore using the theme - "Accent on Serving." Songs, readings, skits and a talk on "the meaning of the accent on serving" were given by the Elkrun members.

Guests present were from Bayard, Elkrun, Greely, Butler and Mt. Nebo granges.

Lunch was served to approximately 50 persons by the committee with Mrs. Harry Dorr as chairman. Pleasant Valley grange will take the traveling tools and present the program to the Willow Grove Grange July 24. Lecturer Mrs. Pauline Mansfield will be in charge.

Next meeting will be on July 21 at 8:30 p.m.

History Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, July 11, the 193rd day of 1964. There are 173 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1804, two revolutionary War leaders, Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton, met in a pistol duel at Weehawken, N.J. across the Hudson River from New York. Two shots were fired and Hamilton fell, mortally wounded. The duel arose over personal and political differences.

On this date:
In 1777 our sixth president, John Quincy Adams, was born.

In 1927, American composer George Gershwin died.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was nominated for president on the first ballot at the Republican convention in Chicago.

Ten years ago — The first Evangelical Church Congress to be held in East Germany ended a four-day meeting in Leipzig after staging pro-Western demonstrations.

Five years ago — Heavy rains in southern Korea ended after creating floods taking 57 lives.

One year ago — The Ecuadorian army ousted President Carlos Arosemena.

Hints From

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: I have found a new way to use those lovely hand lotion dispensers when they are empty.

Just remove the top of the bottle and put it on a bottle of liquid dish detergent! Some types screw on, but it will push on most bottles.

Then when you need a squirt of detergent, the pusher is always handy and gives you the exact amount for a whole sinkful of dishes!

DISHWASHER.
By golly, it works on most bottles of detergents. What a keen idea.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I use this method when defrosting my older-type refrigerator.

I remove the ice trays, put foil around them to insulate and prevent dripping, and place the trays on the lowest shelf of my oven. Then I stack the meat and other frozen foods on top, place milk bottles, etc., around this or on another shelf, cover with a terry towel and close the oven door.

I then clean the refrigerator and replace the food, which is still cold or frozen. Neat, eh?

P. A. T.

LETTER OF TRUTH
DEAR HELOISE: IF you want to carry ice cube trays or shallow pans with water — or any liquid—without spilling... Just hum a waltz to yourself and stride along. You won't spill a drop. Try it.

G. CLEMMANA.

DEAR HELOISE: For those of you who write poorly... try holding your pencil or fountain pen back from the point about one and one-half inches, or two, and see how much better you write!

Instead of those horrible, illegible scribbles and scrawls, you will find an 80 per cent improvement.

PENMANSHIP TEACHER.

True, try it! You'll be amazed.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: It is nice to find that there are still things one can learn through your column after 36 years of housekeeping and raising a family.

For those who like ironed sheets but do not like the big job of ironing, fold your sheet and just iron the hems first... and then spread the sheet out on the ironing board and iron the rest of your flat work on this sheet!

Shift the sheet as you finish each piece you are ironing and you will have nicely ironed sheets with little effort.

LAURA TOONE.

DEAR HELOISE: For mothers with wee little ones... I kept forgetting to buy a bottle brush. Today I was desperate — so I rolled up a long sponge and wrapped it tightly with your wonderful nylon net. Then I sewed the net to the sponge, inserting a wire for a handle — gave the wire a little twist at both ends so it wouldn't pull out — and, presto, I have the finest bottle brush ever.

The sponge does its job while the net actually scratches loose the residue from the inside of the bottle.

MRS. R. FORSYTH.

DEAR HELOISE: Not long ago one of your readers told how she put a piece of yardstick covered with foil between her stove and sink to keep things from falling between them.

I bought three large colored sponges to match the decor in my kitchen and cut them in half. I put these between the stove and the sink where that space was.

When the sponges get soiled I take them out, wash and dry them, and put them back, they do not slip or slide, but stay in place, thereby solving the problem of this open space where dirt and soil accumulate.

ST. PARIS.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint to keep the driver of a car from getting a sunburned arm

(the one next to the window) when wearing short sleeves.

Cut off two sleeves from an old shirt (at about the elbow) and sew the two parts together at the cut ends so it can be put on from either end and have a cuff to button to keep it on.

This idea could also be used for a passenger who might be riding on the sunny side of the car. This is especially good on long automobile trips.

MRS. MELVIN JOHNSTON.
Now, for those of us who have our favorite detergents, why not try this? This precious gal can use any brand she wants with her method.

And because my Grandmother always boiled clothes to get them clean I always thought it was necessary to have hot water. But on some fabrics today it just doesn't seem to be so, does it?

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.
